As it unfolds the century-long history of the collapse of the Ottomans, the film offers an in-depth understanding of the impact the process had on the former Ottoman territories, up to the present time.

For six centuries, the Ottomans had ruled over three continents and seven seas: in Eastern Europe, from Wien to Crimea, all around the Black Sea and the Caucasus; in Mesopotamia; in Arabia, from Cairo to Aden; in the Mediterranean, from Greece to Alexandria... Home to an unprecedented mosaic of peoples and faiths, it controlled the Holy Places of Islam, Christianity and Judaism. It was a great power and still, it would totally collapse in less than a century. In 1923, Mustafa Kemal abolished the Sultanate and proclaimed the modern Republic of Turkey. It was the final blow.

On the ruins of the Ottoman Empire, a whole new world was created. That is the purpose of this two-part film: analysing these new lines of fracture in order to remind how the Ottoman past still matters. Without appropriate knowledge and understanding of this page of history, no one could pretend grasping fully the current political, religious and ethnic challenges of our present time - in Bosnia, in Kosovo, in Turkey, in Lebanon, in Syria, in Israel, in Palestine, in Irak...

This is truly a fascinating and rarely exposed process that the film unfolds, relying on rare film and photo archive, and on interviews with the most renowned international historians.

Tales of love, sex, power, betrayal, heinous crimes, unbearable separations, atrocious revenge, and metamorphoses - the poetic force of the myths has crossed the centuries.

"The Great Myths" documentary series sets out to recount these ancient stories using animations created especially for the occasion, and illustrations chosen from the entire history of art. This dynamic blend, a bridge between modernity and history, ancient narrative and contemporary dramatic art, is a new way to discover or re-discover this part of our universal heritage.

Each of the series' episodes recounts, in 26 minutes, the life and exploits of a hero who has gone down in aviation history. The first two episodes focus on Charles Lindbergh and Manfred Von Richthofen, known as the Red Baron. Later episodes include figures as diverse as Henri Guillaumet, Blériot, Howard Hugues and Chuck Yeager.

Blending sequences of traditional animation and American comic-strip-influenced graphics with carefully restored and coloured archive images, the series paints the active portraits of heroes who have made a lasting mark on the history of aviation.

Brazil is said to be a sleeping giant waking up to become one of the world leaders. Our film will tell country's history through the eyes of 2 families over several generations.

In one of the families, the slaves of before became domestic workers, and the former domestics are now employees, with fixed hours and living in their own homes, where they raise their own children rather than those of their bosses. They have reached the middle class. The other family descends from coffee barons and army generals. It is still a wealthy family, but yesterday's fortune was lost. Its members have witnessed many historical events. These two families will embody the evolutions of Brazil since the twenties until today. Our goal is to intersect the families saga and the nation's history with a broad range of photo and film archives, both public and private. We will complete this with a more global contextualization of the general History of the country.

Mussolini's mistress and advisor, remains a nearly forgotten woman in the Duce's entourage. 20 years of intense, loving, and reciprocal passion. For Mussolini, Margherita was his shadow, his phantom, and his speechwriter. She was the Duce's "other wife". She was Jewish.

Born in 1880 in a 15th-century palace on the edge of the old ghetto of Venice, Margherita Sarfatti spent the rest of her youth in the Palazzo Bembo on the Grand Canal. Her father wanted her to have the best tutors.

But that did not prevent her from becoming a militant socialist and, later, one of the most listened to members of the party, and yet, an avant-garde feminist. Her salon, first in Milan then in Rome, attracted famous composers, writers, and artists from Italy and abroad. She loved to collect "precious people".

In helping to create the Novecento Italiano, the artistic movement dedicated to Fascism, she gathered the leading figures of the day. In 1923, she had the first Novecento exhibition in Milan opened by her lover, Benito Mussolini.

The collection plunges the spectator into the heart of contemporary Egyptian history, interweaving the major themes of the Army, the Moslem Brotherhood, International Relations and the role of Civil Society. "The Egyptian revolution took me by surprise. As an Egyptian woman, I followed the events with pride. I wondered what was really going on in my country in 2011." Jihan El Tahri, filmmaker.

On 25th January, 1952, Cairo city centre was reduced to ashes. The crowd demanded the departure of the British forces and "bread, freedom and social justice". 59 years later, to the day, the same anger has re-surfaced and the same slogans are being brandished. But this time, the target is an elected Egyptian leader. For 6 decades, these modern-day pharaohs, who followed on from one another in power, have wanted to detach Egypt from its colonial past and to transform the country into a modern, secular State, and a leader on its continent.

HD

From Gamal Abdel Nasser to Anwar Sadat, to Hosni Mubarak, "The Pharaohs of Modern Egypt" follows the path of the successive regimes in power, and reveals their common goal to carefully lay the basis of a solid independence, but which, on the other hand, led to the revolution on Tahrir Square in 2011.

Soviet archives house the only filmed memories of the Holocaust. Taken on the fly, these images represent reality. But what reality?

Following the German invasion, the Soviets decided to put their know-how into practice and to film the enemy's fearsome extermination machine, for their own purposes. The images of war from the period were inspired by a cinematographic tradition of aestheticism, but were also dependent on political considerations. This strategy of "war-by-image" creates a black hole: the identity of the victims. The Jews are forgotten. Mentioning the Jews goes against the idea of a Great Patriotic War. Examining the images recorded during this dark period means looking anew at what was not filmed, but also at the messages transmitted and the arrangements made with the truth. Do "images-as-truth" lie?

Personal testimonies from Islamic State defectors and those who have helped them escape. This exceptional documentary reveals what daily life is like inside Daesh and looks at the conditions surrounding the dangerous work of exfiltration.

In southeast Turkey, a few dozen kilometres from war-torn Syria, at great risk to themselves, a clandestine network is exfiltrating fighters who have decided to leave Daesh. For the first time, these deserters have agreed to give a detailed account of the roles they played and what life is like under the yoke of Islamic State.

Most of them have lived in Raqqa, the political and military capital of the terrorist group. Personal accounts of this sort are extremely rare because, in general, Daesh deserters go into hiding and keep quiet. If they give themselves up to their country's authorities, they are immediately imprisoned and can no longer have any contact with their lawyers or families.

The exfiltration network, made up of long-term fighters of the Free Syrian Army, has agreed to reveal a few of its working methods. By helping the deserters to flee and by collecting their testimonies, they want to denounce Islamic State's lies, its false promises, its cult of violence and its widespread corruption. The members of the network are convinced that, in doing so, they will be able to discourage future Jihad candidates and block precious recruitment channels.

An unprecedented and chilling investigation into the invisible weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder of tens of thousands of Syrians.

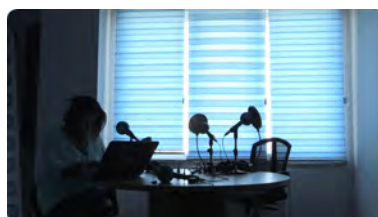

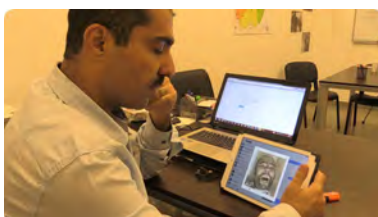

Images of the first peaceful protests of March 2011 have become a vague, almost fanciful memory. The Syria of 2015 has sunk into civil war and absolute chaos. Chaos caused by the over-mediatised brutality of the self proclaimed Islamic State. Chaos, also and above all, caused by the invisible and little known weapon of Bashar al-Assad's regime: the kidnapping, torture and murder, since 2011, of tens of thousands of Syrians - up to 200,000 of them, depending on the source.

Countless disappearances reveal the relentless death machine secretly set up by Damascus: teenagers are rounded up in their schools, protesters are sent in trucks to unknown destinations, and passers-by are arbitrarily arrested. For the first time, families in exile, survivors, but also accomplices of the Alawite regime, lay bare the strategy the Syrian dictatorship uses in order to remain in power at all costs. According to Munir al-Hariri, who served the Assads until November 2012, "the objective is not murder, but to prove the State's strength and tyranny. The objective is to kill some to teach a lesson to others".

Today, people are being subjected to a new form of insecurity - in the form of access to energy. In under a decade, electricity bills have rocketed by over 20%! How can an increase of this magnitude be justified? And could the price hike have been avoided?

A lack of political foresight, self-centeredness on the part of States, poor management by industrialists and European Commission dogmatism... is Europe on the verge of a blackout? This investigation endeavours to reveal the series of decisions that have led to this new form of insecurity, to this situation in which citizens lack the power to control access to energy.

Kurdistan, which is split over Iran, Iraq, Turkey and Syria, could play a major role in a Middle East that has been torn apart. But who are the Kurds? What influence do they have? And who exactly is Abdullah Öcalan, leader of the Kurdistan Workers' Party? An enlightening investigation.

The siege of the Syrian city Kobane by the Islamic State troops put forward the forgotten people of the official history : the Kurdish people. In Turkey, where the majority of the Kurdish people is living, the various governments have perpetuated a policy of assimilation and denial with a rare violence. In 1983, the PKK - Kurdistan Workers Party - declared war on the Turkish state. This triggered a 30-year-old conflict, which caused the death of 40.000 people, the displacement of millions of people and the destruction of thousands of villages. Öcalan and the kurdish issue describes twenty years of high hopes and disappointments in building a dialogue. It narrates a chronicle of one of the key conflicts in the Middle East, through the testimonies of those who lived it.

The movie describes three areas in the world in the US, France and Japan where the landscapes are dominated by nuclear sites. It explains the origins of plutonium, and examines its evolution from a matter used for military purposes to one which is used for nuclear energy. It explores the scientific, industrial and geopolitical implications of its production.

The film begins with the story of the birth of plutonium production in the 40s in Hanford USA, then recounts the history of the nuclear reprocessing plant in La Hague, France, then tells of the Rokkasho nuclear site in Japan which is actually built on a seismic fault line. Citizens and local politicians share their thoughts and experiences on living near these nuclear sites. The film is based on archives made by scientists at that time and recreates the story of an industrial environment secretly born in arid and desolate locations. The sites, depicted through creative imagery, show us that humankind made an irreversible choice in the mid-twentieth century.

Estimated at 7 billion Euros a year, the traffic of art is the third largest traffic activity in the world, after drugs and weapons. It constitutes the grounds for a global clash between States, traffickers, auction houses, collectors and NGOs.

How is the traffic of art encouraged and used to legitimise authority, whether economic or political? From Paris to Beijing, via Geneva and Luxembourg, this documentary, in the form of an international investigation, highlights the double talk by States in relation to the traffic of cultural property, as well as the rise of the private players who benefit from it.

Since 1841, when Edgar Allan Poe's The Murders in the Rue Morgue marked the birth of the whodunnit, the popularity of the genre has never waned. Nowadays, one published novel in four is a "roman noir", a "thriller" or a "detective story". There have been variations on the trope of the whodunnit in every possible medium, from video games to comic strips, to say nothing of endless film adaptations. How did crime fiction come to be so popular that it is now a universal language everyone can understand? Why do whodunnits fascinate the public and creative folk to such an extent? Is it for their condensed, exaggeratedly dark portrayals of the societies that produce them, or on account of the endless fund of strong storylines they provide?

HD

This documentary series in 3 parts (like many police investigations) immerses us in the chaos that lies at the dark heart of the whodunnit, gradually leading us towards the denouement. Through interviews with present-day creators of crime fiction, Part 1 of Anatomy of Crime Fiction analyses the fateful trio of the victim, the murderer and the detective, piecing together a profile of the 3 emblematic figures who provide the starting-point for all good whodunnits, while Parts 2 and 3 explore locations and plots. Authors Caryl Férey, Michael Connelly, etc., directors Michael Mann, Olivier Marchal, etc., showrunners Anne Landois and David Simon, illustrator Juanjo Guarnido and gamer David Cage guide us through the fantastical, labyrinthine world of the suspense story, to which the wave of Nordic crime fiction brought a breath of fresh (albeit chilly) air in the early 1990s.

This documentary reveals how a gesture of emancipation has become an urban ritual and sums up the US today. A place with a high concentration of seats of power. A cradle of black music, but one that took a long time to recognise Hip Hop, the style that popularised the "fist bump".

Originally, shaking hands was a mark of trust. People held out an open hand to show they were not holding a weapon. Today, everybody is doing the "fist bump". How and why did a banal gesture created by 17th century black slaves - which subsequently became a symbol of black ghettos, rap and US sport - end up becoming part of Barack Obama's inauguration ceremony at the White House?

A tasty series blending travel, cooking, nature and civic sense, following the daily work of 25 "green" chefs fighting for eco-friendly cooking.

To preserve the environment, to give preference to local products and to indulge our taste buds with healthy foods, is the creed of these new chefs from five continents.

In each episode the chef shows his cooking and his philosophy but also his region. The chef is "our" guide to discover his favorite local markets, indigenous products, popular places he likes to eat. He also focuses on some of his producers (farmers, fishermen etc...) as well as other people who may inspire or influence him.

10 markets, 10 complex systems that play a crucial role in their city : Barcelona, Budapest, Vienna, Lyon, Turin, Firenze, Toulouse, Zagreb, Riga and Freiburg. They all have a big belly : the city food market that nourishes a great part of their population.

We all know what a food market is. We're attracted by the electrifying colours, pulsing sounds and gorging products. But what do we know about how a food market actually works? How do enormous quantities of food reach there every day and where does it come from? Who decides the prices and puts together thousands of different vendors in huge but concentrated areas? In the Belly of the City graphs the changes that have taken place at the heart of the cities food supply systems from an entirely new perspective.

1951-2015: 6 Revolutionary Decades in Italy and Fashion. From the dolce vita of the 1950s, to the hedonism of the 1970s, the prolific 1980s, and the globalization of the 2000s, this is a history of Italy told through fashion and its big-name fashion houses.

The made in Italy label has always been synonymous with elegance, quality fabrics and tailoring. It jetted Italian fashion into pop culture and revolutionized fashion worldwide, inventing along its way bling-bling, supermodels, red carpets, and luxury as an inspired global art de vivre. Chockfull of archive footage and exclusive interviews, Made in Italy is a moving, serious evocation of pop over the past six decades. During this time, Italian fashion, like Italy itself, has constantly been reinventing itself.

Autism remains a mystery. However, the fact that there is no medical treatment is an absolute certainty. There is no solution for autism. People with autism will live with this disorder all their life and societies are all facing the same question: how to take care of them?

France lags behind on this subject. Comparing the experiences of other countries, Italy, Sweden, Germany, and Quebec, we will clarify the French situation and demonstrate that practices exist and allow to improve significantly the autistic's life. Every time it comes to real societal choices that reveal our various ways to approach difference. But there are in any case, no simple answers to this complex problem.

Following the events of 7th January 2015 in Paris, we wanted to understand who inspired cartoonists Cabu, Wolinski, Charb and all the others, in developing their art - the art of caricature.

Hogarth, Gillray, Daumier, Philipon, Valloton and even Jean Moulin all dipped their pens in the black ink of caricature. They are indebted to the aesthetic research of the geniuses of art such as the Italians Leonardo da Vinci and Bernini, the Germans Lucas Cranach, Hans Holbein and Durer, the Dutchman Jerome Bosch and many more. Baudelaire himself said: "Caricature is an excellent indication of a society's freedom". An art form that is often gagged but is never hushed!

This sensitive profile of Saliha, the mother of a young jihadi who died in Syria, gives a voice to a group whose pain and loss are often brushed aside - the families of radicalized young Muslims.

In August 2013, Saliha's 19-year-old son Sabri left their comfortable family home in Brussels from one day to the next to "make jihad" in Syria. Three months later, with equal suddenness, his parents, brothers and little sister were informed that he was "presumed" dead (young Europeans who have joined ISIS are not officially recognized as dead by their countries of origin). All that Sabri's loving, grief-stricken family have left of him is an empty bedroom full of reminders that have nothing to do with the bloody cause he embraced.

To come to terms with their bereavement and its terrible circumstances, Saliha and her husband contacted other French and Belgian parents of youngsters who set off for Syria. They support each other and try to fathom how their sons and daughters reached the point where they were willing to sever all ties with their families - leaving wounds that will never heal. To combat the jihadi networks and fight the ostracism suffered by jihadis' families, Saliha talks about her bereavement to audiences ranging from Belgian members of Parliament to secondary school pupils, denouncing the lax attitudes of the authorities towards those who recruit the youngsters.

Left paralysed by an aeroplane crash, Dorine Bourneton was determined to fulfil her dream of becoming the first disabled female aerobatics pilot.

Dorine had always wanted to fly. But in May 1991, when she was just 16, tragedy intervened. The small Piper aircraft she was a passenger on hit the side of Mount Mézenc, in the Haute-Loire area of France. Dorine was the sole survivor of the crash. She lost the use of her legs, but not the passion for flying she shared with her father. As Sam Caro's documentary charts her struggles and shows how she sets about achieving her goal, Dorine emerges as a woman of exceptional courage and talent. It takes us up to June 2015, when she was about to become the first disabled woman ever to perform an aerobatics display at the Paris Air Show.

The trees that are featured across Europe - from Greece to Sweden - stand as references to time, witnesses of collective life and sources of spirituality. Others represent, quite simply, aesthetic encounters. From the ends of their roots to the tips of their crowns, ten trees recount stories and converse among themselves, in this beautiful blending of nature and culture.

Sarah Schwartz has been travelling the world, from big top to big top, for over twenty years. She has made the circus her world. A high wire at her feet leads her from one country to the next.

In this collection, she invites us behind the scenes of the circus dream, revealing its highly singular world. Taking part in a convoy with Sarah Schwarz means discovering a country in a different way: through the steamed up window of a caravan, a different shade of world goes past, a nomadic world, a world of freedom.

With Sarah, we set out to discover a universe that will help us understand the countries visited, bringing us wisdom and knowledge, but also magic and poetry. From the family circus to contemporary circus, from the travelling circus to the permanent circus, we discover countries that are different from each other, yet are all planets in the same galaxy. Roll up, roll up, for a magical, brightly coloured world tour!

Worldwide.

Coastlines and seafronts are the gateways to the oceans, a source of many and varied natural resources. It's easy to understand why half of the world's population lives along or near the coast.

Throughout History man has discovered and settled faraway places by first reaching land on the coasts and seafronts. And it's one explanation for the fascinating racial mix that is often found on coasts. The 10 coastlines featured in the series brilliantly reflect the lifestyles and customs of the people that use them. Some coasts are still growing like those in Hawaii, spiked with active volcanoes whose lava flows into the ocean, others are at sea level as in United Arab Emirates. On the coast live multilayered and mixed-race communities, deeply rooted with strong identities. Together they all share a common secret, the secret that has fashioned their culture and their way of life: the fear of the Big One in California, the isolation along Chile's endless coastline, the smouldering volcanoes of Hawaii, nature preservation in Costa Rica, souvenirs of the revolution in Mozambique, post-communism in Cambodia...

This is the common theme throughout the series, the secrets that each film reveals as it investigates the seashores and coast lines.

Our dreams of discovery, of exotic locations and unusual encounters will lead us to the snow-topped summits and mist-filled valleys of some of the world's most mythical mountains.

Their names are perhaps familiar only to mountaineering aficionados, but they convey a sense of wonder that inspires all our imaginations. Often extremely difficult to even reach, if not climb, they are a source of both fascination and foreboding.

The common denominator of these natural sky-scrapers : they are all generally sacred places, and their inhabitants regard them as veritable gods. The local populations, in harsh, even menacing environments, perpetuate rituals and traditions that are of great importance in their everyday lives. Tourism and mountain-based sporting activities may have developed considerably, but such places still retain an aura of mystery that we shall reveal through this spectacular series.

Nestled in the heart of the Himalayas, the small kingdom of Bhutan has decided to do away with "the dictatorship of Gross Domestic Product" and economic growth at all costs. A new wealth indicator has now become the country's gold standard: Gross National Happiness (GNH).

Launched by the country's fourth King, the "new paradigm" is based on four pillars: protection of the environment; conservation and promotion of Bhutanese culture; good governance; and responsible and sustainable economic development. Today, GNH permeates the entire country, and is bringing about deep change in agriculture (100% organic by 2020), the national education system (pupils learn to become "ambassadors of change"), natural resource management (strict regulations on mining and felling trees, and "zero carbon" development), healthcare (free for all), tourism (top-of-the-range), and energy (the promotion of renewable energies).

HD

Through interviews with senior officials as well as with players in the field, the film recounts the development of GNH. The vision of happiness and common good that underpins the country was the subject of a report that attracted a great deal of attention in the United Nations. This film in the Land of the Dragon will guarantee viewers a change of scenery. The country has gone from the Middle Ages to modernity in the space of less than 50 years, and is showing the way towards a sustainable, "decarbonised" and fairer society.

Are biopesticides - micro-organisms that fight pests naturally - the promise of a chemical-free agriculture? Farmers all over the world are converting to biopesticides, stimulated by scientific research that is opening up new perspectives. But is the technique risk-free for the environment?

Invertebrates, insects, mites, fungi, bacteria, viruses ... these living mini-organisms that scientists are studying in great detail worldwide, will here make light work of pests. Today they are our best hope of a pesticide-free agriculture that is so harmful to man and the environment.

HD

So are biopesticides revolutionary? In Europe, Brazil and India, millions of farmers have already adopted bioprotectors. Today, the agro-chemical industry is investing heavily in the sector, but promising as it is, the technique is still far from being infallible, and is not entirely devoid of risk to the ecosystem.

6 women. Amy, Heike, Ida, Merethe, Otaciana and Pabitra. They live in Canada, Germany, Argentina, Denmark, Nepal and Brazil.

They have never met each other, but have many things in common. Although they are neither activists nor intellectuals, they all possess a sense of urgency in the face of the deterioration of our planet, which they see as a threat to the future of their children, and to humanity in general.

They form part of an increasingly large body of voices that are speaking up to demand an economic and ecological transition that will take on the challenges of the 21st century. On their own individual levels, they show that things can be done differently right now, by taking part in initiatives that lead to a fairer and more sustainable society, in the area of food production (urban agriculture), energy (transition towns) and money (local currencies). Their voices are paving the way for our future.

Through the correspondence between the actress Marion Cotillard, a climate change activist, and Marinel, a young Filipino, we explore the coasts left devastated by one of the greatest natural disasters ever recorded on the island, as well as solutions for preserving the future of the region.

In 2013 the Super Typhoon Haiyan hit the coasts of the Philippines, destroying towns and villages. Over 6000 people were killed and millions were left homeless. The film follows 16-year-old Marinel, one of many Filipinos taking action to save the archipelago from climate change-related catastrophes, through her encounters with individuals who have refused to abandon hope and are working to safeguard the Philippines. The journey ends on a note of triumph at the COP21 Climate Conference in Paris, where Marinel is propelled into the role of spokesperson and rubs shoulders with leading figures in the fight against climate change.

Scientists have proved that the mental faculties of high-performance athletes' are superior to the average brain. Today, psycho-cognitive training is carried out in certain major clubs and Olympic teams, to push sportsmen and women even further. Studies now demonstrate its efficiency.

The performance of athletes has evolved considerably over the last twenty years, and the extraordinary talent of certain super-trained, veritable winning-machines is intriguing neuroscientists. As a result of technological progress, scientists now have the tools to be able to understand exactly what lies behind the talent of these unstoppable champions.

Through careful observation of outstanding athletes' brains, scientists have identified mechanisms of learning and gesture memorisation, in the core of these athletes' neurons.

They have been able to observe to what extent intensive physical training modifies the cerebral cortex, which gives high-performance sportspeople greater rapidity and more precision than anyone else in their particular sport. But the beneficial effects of their daily sports practice do not stop there; it also increases their cognitive capacities. More attentive and able to control their concentration effectively, these athletes use superior intelligence to read and anticipate their opponents' moves.

Should cancer really be understood and treated as a "disease of the genes" or could another avenue - which was once abandoned but has now been taken up again - enable us to understand and treat it?

Researchers and doctors in various countries think so, and want to revolutionize treatment. For them, cancer is a disorder of cellular metabolism, which could be treated with a few simple molecules. This film invites us to take stock of their research.

Human consciousness, which is unique in the living world, has remained a mystery of divine origin for thousands of years. But today, recent and spectacular scientific progress (from medical imagery to quantum physics) is starting to shed light on it.

I think therefore I am. But who thinks inside of us? Who are we? This film takes us on a journey beyond our brains. Like conscience, human intelligence has propelled Man to the peak of evolution, giving him the opportunity to dominate the world. And yet today, intelligence would seem to have broken down. Average IQ is dropping. Through this investigation into the nature of intelligence and multiple intelligences, we discover the reasons for this breakdown, and how we can give our intelligence another boost, thanks to scientific progress, including brain cell transplants.

Will we soon be conceiving and growing babies outside women's bodies?

The very first baby conceived following a womb transplant was born in Sweden in 2014. The film relates this scientific undertaking, which has ignited hope among the 1 in 5,000 women born without a uterus, as well as among women who have lost their wombs to cancer or an accident. In France, two medical teams are currently preparing to embark upon a protocol designed for a small group of young women who do not have wombs. This medical exploit marks a new chapter in the fight against sterility. And as medical advances meet the concerns of society, transsexuals and homosexuals view it as the opportunity to experience pregnancy themselves. The prospect of babies developing entirely outside the womb in an artificial uterus is getting closer.

In 19th century Paris, for both political and economic reasons, Parisian prostitution became a social phenomenon on an unprecedented scale. From the seedy part of town to the salons of the wealthy bourgeoisie, Paris became the capital of sex.

During this industrial revolution era, doctors and moralists, cops and robbers, bosses and workers all used prostitution - and it inevitably attracted artists.

From the mid 19th century, it was as though prostitution had become a central, key theme of artistic creation. The film recounts the rise and metamorphosis of prostitution in the 19th century, through the eyes of artists, and the pictorial revolution that accompanied it. By exploring the representation of prostitution in 19th century arts, the film dwells on this very specific moment in the history of the "world's oldest profession".

Diego Velázquez, the artist ceaselessly in search of the human truth through the treatment of the light and the space and in the way he roams around things, is a documentary maker before his time. His work full of boldness marks an essential stage in the history of paint.

From the paints of Velázquez and especially what gets free of it, the movie goes off to explore the peculiarity of the "painter of the painters" and of the artistic and esthetic revolution which Diego Velázquez caused. Since the "Venus with a Mirror" up to the mirror of Ménines, the movie escapes any didacticism and attempts to recreate the exceptional emotional link between the work of Velázquez and the look of the public, between the eye of the painter and the one of the spectator. Between his life and our lives.

ADVENTURERS OF MODERN ART (THE)

Plunge into Parisian life at the turn of the 20th Century with Picasso, Dali, Apollinaire, Man Ray, Kiki and more...

Adapted from Dan Franck's literary trilogy Bohemian Paris, Libertad!, Midnight - The documentary series made up of six episodes plunges us into Parisian life in the beginning of the twentieth century, a hotbed of artistic creation with the blossoming of Fauvism, Cubism, Dadaism, and surrealism.

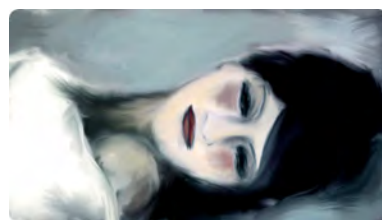

Through illustrations, animation and original archives, the film will trace the highs and lows, scandals and celebrations, tragedies and the triumphs that shaped the phenomenal period of Modern Art from the basement of the "Bateau-lavoir" in 1900 to the last shudders of World War II.

The main characters are called Picasso, Max Jacob, Stein, Apollinaire, Hemingway, Matisse, Cocteau, Kiki... artists, art dealers, muses who came to France from all over Europe and left an indelible mark on the 20th century. These glorious subversives were adventurers before becoming heroes.

Henri Rousseau, referred to as "le Douanier", started to paint in Paris around 1880, at the age of 40. This self-taught artist was friendly with the poet Apollinaire, Robert Delaunay and Pablo Picasso, who recognised his genius, and yet his work was to remain under-rated during his lifetime.

However, with its dislocated compositions and profoundly dreamlike subject matter, it was to have a decisive influence on modern art, from surrealism to abstract art. This documentary film explores the secret inspiration and the little known influences of a painter whose canvasses are much less naïve than they appear to be.

Leading contemporary artists delegate whole sections of the production of their works. Increasingly today, contemporary art is the result of a collective effort.

Engineers, designers, architects, artisans, workers, glass-makers, smelters, blacksmiths, coppersmiths, jewellery-makers, "highbrows" and "helping hands", whether they possess high-tech or ancestral know-how - they all work in the shadows to produce today's art. We follow the production of two works, created by two leading international artists - Xavier Veilhan and Wim Delvoye - from conception to completion.

This collection explores history of art in a totally new way. Each film is a journey, an investigation and an adventure. The painting comes to life, as animation overrides the limits of the frame, taking us to the heart of the canvass and plunging us into its era and history.

The great works of the past portray abundant testimonies, and are imbued with secrets and are teeming with mysteries. Beneath the surface of the painting, details awaken, to recount the spirit of the times and the vagaries of History, such as wars, revolutions, economic transformation, scientific discovery, beliefs and schools of thought.

This highly visual and accessible documentary combines an in-the-moment perspective as well as a historical one. It sparks curiosity and a desire to find out more about the subject. Viewers will find themselves wanting to delve into coffee-table books or take a trip to a museum.

Ask people to name 5 photographers, from past or present, and the chances are that few will think to name a woman. Yet since Photography was first invented, women have made an incontestable contribution to the art form. With Photography being very much in vogue, it is a fitting time to dedicate a film to women photographers and to set the record straight on their little-known talents.

The word "Borsalino" today designates a felt hat. The Borsalino family brand has become a household name, like that of Tupperware, Kleenex or Walkman.

The quality felt hat, born in a small family factory in Alessandria in the 1850s, rose in status from manufactured object to veritable international myth when the craftsmanship of a small provincial town met the Hollywood dream. This film recounts the history of the manufacture of this myth, which has close ties to the history of cinema in the early 20th century.

In 1926, he was at the peak of his glory and wealth. By 1933, he had reached rock bottom. How, in the space of a few years, did Buster Keaton, the uncontested genius of silent films, go from the status of being a widely-worshipped star to an alcoholic and solitary fallen idol?

With a spotlight on the 7 years during which his life changed, using extracts of Keaton's films as magnifying mirrors, the film recounts the dramatic life of this creative genius and the Hollywood studios. Was it yet another episode of the never-ending struggle to hold onto one's freedom in the face of financiers?

After leaving Sennett's Keystone Studios, where he had spent his year of apprenticeship in cinema, Charles Chaplin became a worldwide star at 10 times his former salary by joining The Essanay Film Manufacturing Company in January 1915. For the first time, his name was on the credits (the series was called "Essanay-Chaplin brand"), and Essanay was the first to sell merchandising rights for a movie character.

In one year, Chaplin was to star in and direct 16 hilarious films, including his iconic The Tramp - each release breaking a new record in sales. Like the two previous series (Keystone and Mutual), these will be newly restored. They will sparkle! The restoration of the Essanay comedies will conclude the restoration of the Chaplin films, now 100 years old, and will amaze future generations in their second century.

In 1916, after a 2-year long career, Chaplin is already the most paid actor in the world. He signs for 12 new comedies with Mutual Film Corp. He has his own studio, and total control of the production of his films : unprecedented.

These 12 comedies shot between 1916 and 1917 are a fireworks of humor, invention and fun, maybe what Chaplin has done best in all his career. Success after success, the character of The tramp becomes more complex, and films like The Vagabond, One A.m. Or the Immigrant are jewels of skill and sophistication.

These ultimate restorations are the result of 3 long years of research in the world, and technological achievements. One century after their first release, these films do not have a wrinkle, and the pleasure of watching them is intact. Chaplin said "Shooting the Mutual comedies was the best moment of my life"

NET SALARY AND GROSS WORLD

The job-hunt jungle, the fringe economy, the hassles of switching employers almost as often as you change your socks - life reduced to the net hourly wage... A comical chronicle of the world of temping.

Seb and Elise are adventurers, on the lookout for the slightest job. They get brief glimpses of what goes on in the world of work, when company doors swing open for an instant. But then the door slams shut and they're outside, awaiting their next contract.

Supermarket checker, pizza deliverer, "interactive" actor, sorter at the recycling center... Their temporary jobs are tedious and/or absurd, their bosses are toxic, and their customers are obnoxious.

Worse yet, it's all true!

YOU'LL DIE LESS STUPID

This animated mini-series is based on Marion Moutagne's popular and irreverent science blog. Professor Moustache and his assistant Nathanaël demystify science on screen and day-to-day.

"You'll Die Smarter" is for those who skipped biology or physics lessons but who vaguely remember what gravity and white blood cells are, and who think that lasers are cool, but would like to know a bit more. And if possible, not have to make too much of an effort, oh, and also have fun. Because learning the fun way is the best way to remember it all.

By the 1960s, legendary conceptual artist Donald Judd had grown tired of New York. That's when he remembered Marfa, a cowboy village lost in West Texas--the perfect place, he thought, to be free at last. Judd, one of the founders of minimalism, ended up turning the town into one of the world's leading places for contemporary art.

Today, despite the artist's death in 1994, Marfa still acts as a magnet for artistic refugees. What are all these modern-day "Marfians" looking for? In five subjective and suggested portraits, I [art] MARFA is a poetic postcard, sent from an eerie Texas ghost town that never destined itself to so much strangeness.

This series is an unsettling journey to the heart of the infinitely small: decay. It is carried out using an innovative technique, the "Cellscope", a microscope usually used for medical purposes, which, when linked to a Smartphone, enables images to be enlarged 80 to 1,200 times.

This series plunges us into the strange and fascinating living world that is born from death, and that inhabits our daily lives. The story, a blend of science and poetry, is told by French actor Denis Lavant, and uses exceptional images to reveal everything that is beautiful, striking and mysterious about decomposition, in THE NIGHT OF THE LIVING. Bacteria, dendritic cells, collembola, yeast ... A composition on decomposition!

How far does a prawn travel before ending up in a supermarket? How much time goes by between the time a cow arrives and the time its meat is refrigerated in the form of a steak?

Focusing on industrially produced goods, "Product"'s subjective camera accesses various manufacturing chains in different countries. Combining a fascination for the processes with a form of unveiling, the series documents the various stages of manufacture, and sets out to meet the communities and discover the technologies involved in them. "Product" aims to decode a globalised industry in which the end products mask the realities of their manufacture.

In a suburban town that has been badly affected by the closure of the region's only factory, solidarity is organised in the form of women's wrestling matches. These events turn the destinies of four friends - Céline, Selma, Nathalie and Agathe - upside down.

The closure of the reputable ladies' underwear factory Voltanelle has propelled the town to the edge of a precipice. Good times have given way to rising unemployment and an increasingly widening social divide, which is proving to be a boon for a racist political party.

Determined not to go in silence, the former female factory workers decide to organise a women's wrestling tournament, along very simple lines, with a fight every Friday. The money collected at the door is shared among the women wrestlers and the best of them all will be the happy winner of the jackpot.

As the battle for local elections rages, the wrestling matches - which spur some people on but are a source of shame for others - fall prey to politics. The event crystallises people's passions, debates, dreams and disappointments... until the grand finale between Céline and Diabolica.

David and Deborah Pennac cultivate the image of a perfect couple, hoping to fool those around them.

In reality, David, a love coach, lives in fear of losing everything he's got, especially his wife, whom we suspect he manipulates. As for Deborah, she would do anything to alleviate her boredom and the pain of her inability to bear children, even to the extent, it would appear, of enduring her husband's violent outbursts.

But appearances look set to come tumbling down when David's brother Nicolas turns up, eight years after they have fallen out. Nicolas, who is charming but borderline, is a former junkie - good reasons to refuse to put him up, despite the fact he is in distress. His wife Marie has left him and no longer gives any sign of life. She has left him their four-year-old daughter, Emma. Moved by the little girl who rekindles her longing for a child, Deborah convinces her husband to put Nicolas up for a while, and to use the time to make peace with him.

Sacha Mendel, a commanding officer with the judicial police, thinks the disappearance of Marie Pennac should be a straightforward case to deal with. But he soon becomes concerned for Deborah, who is caught between two brothers with a troubled past. When Deborah disappears in turn, something tells him he doesn't have a moment to lose.

Bad Mother. Bad Mistress. Workplace physician.

Isabelle Adjani is Carole Matthieu - a workplace physician employed in a call centre who has become emotionally involved in the suffering of her humiliated coworkers, exposed to both physical and emotional violence. Powerless to stop the endless flow of employees that come to see her on a daily basis, she decides to take action one evening.

When one employee, whom she has previously saved from a suicide attempt, comes to see her, she decides to end it all... for him. In a frantic race against time, police search for a culprit, unions dither on the stance they should take, and the management tries to keep up a front, to hold on to their market share. Despite these obstacles, and the doubt and guilt consuming her, the slayer-cum-saviour workplace angel is determined to recount "the other story", using notes, letters and medical records. The story of men and women, crushed under the mechanics of performance and profit. With: Isabelle ADJANI, Corinne MASIERO, Ola RAPACE.

This drama is Valeria Bruni Tedeschi's adaptation of Anton Chekhov's favourite play.

In a small garrison town, lost in the middle of the Russian countryside, three young women, who arrived there with their late father, a former brigade commander, dream of returning to Moscow where they spent their childhood. Entertained by military visits, the sisters find a semblance of a life. Macha, who married her dull husband at too early an age, falls in love with a commander. Olga finds renewed enthusiasm for life and Irina becomes engaged to a lieutenant.

But it is soon time for the troops to leave, the youngest sister's fiancé dies in a duel, and solitude once again takes over the lives of these three women, who become disillusioned recluses. The chronicle of several years of a life on the fringes of history and modernity, this four-act drama is an ironic portrayal of a youth without perspective or illusion, as though frozen in a deadly era. The strange mirror of a drifting country, Three Sisters captures the image of a society on the brink of a destiny that cannot be, and that is aware of its imminent end.

With: Eric RUF, Bruno RAFFAELLI, Florence VIALA, Coraly ZAHONERO, Laurent STOCKER, Michel VUILLERMOZ, Elsa LEPOIVRE, Gilles DAVID, Stéphane VARUPENNE, Georgia SCALLIET, Danièle LEBRUN and Michel ROBIN, Bernard NISSILE from the Comédie-Française.
